The opening of the application process was authorised by an order from the Rector of the Universidade NOVA de Lisboa, Professor João Sàágua, on January 24th, 2025, following a favourable opinion from the NOVA FCSH Scientific Council.

Once hired, the researcher will be made an integrated member of the Art History Institute Research Unit, and is expected to develop their research and teaching activities in accordance with the strategic objectives of the said Research Unit and the Art History Department of NOVA FCSH, contributing to the strengthening and development of the 'Arts and Humanities' and 'Society and Politics' strategic cohesion pillar of NOVA FCSH.

1 – This is an international application process which is documental in nature and the hiring of the Assistant Researcher will be conducted under the scope of the Portuguese Labour Code, approved by Law No 7/2009, of 12 February, in its current wording, the Programme Contract for support for the development of R&D activities, entered into between FCT, I. P. and the NOVA and pursuant to the provisions of Article 28(4) of the Scientific Employment Regulations (REC), published in the Official Gazette (Diário da República) by Regulation No 607-A/2017, of 22 November, and Regulation No 393/2018, published in the Official Gazette (Diário da República) 2nd Series, No 123, of 28 June, regarding the careers, recruitment and employment contracts of researchers under employment contracts at the Universidade Nova de Lisboa.

2 – Description of the vacancy:

2.1 NOVA FCSH is looking to hire an Assistant Researcher with experience and scientific practice in the field of Artistic Practices, Museums, and Citizenship. The candidate should have a solid curriculum based on Art History and a strong track record of research on processes related to Art History, informed by other areas of knowledge production, such as activism and post-colonial studies, as well as specialized knowledge in the broad field of museum studies. The candidate must demonstrate: experience in conducting research with impact in the cultural public sphere; certified experience in the design and implementation of research projects, including competitively funded projects by national and/or international research agencies; certified participation in research teams of funded projects, either as project leader and/or team member; exceptional research qualities demonstrated through an established track record of relevant publications, including peer-reviewed international journals, books, reports, and other relevant media. The candidate must be an active member of relevant networks in the research topics covered and should also demonstrate engagement with society and the transfer of knowledge to the public, private, or non-profit sectors, as well as to the general public. Additionally, the candidate should demonstrate relevant experience in teaching and/or supervision at the Master's and possibly Doctoral level, and a commitment to innovative pedagogical approaches, following a research-oriented teaching approach

2.2 The contracted Researcher will form part of the Art History Institute Research Unit, participating in the following scientific research, dissemination of knowledge and teaching tasks:

- A) Contribute to the University's productive scientific community, namely through involvement in the strategic plans of the IHA and IN2PAST, as well as in the development of NOVA FCSH's 'Arts and Humanities' and 'Society and Politics' strategic areas;
- B) Expanding the horizons of the IHA and IN2PAST research team and ensure its long-term stability;
- C) Design and conduct independent research on 'Artistic Practices, Museums and Citizenship';
- D) Disseminate high-quality research results through publication in recognized international journals and public platforms;
- E) Proactively seek funding to support research initiatives;
- F) Collaborate with the Management Offices of the IHA and IN2PAST, namely in coordination tasks;
- G) Collaborate with the History of Art Department in designing and teaching courses on Artistic Practices, Museums and Citizenship at the master's and doctoral levels. These curricular units should actively contribute to affirming and developing best educational practices at the undergraduate and master's levels;
- H) Supervise students, providing guidance and advice at all levels;
- I) Establish meaningful collaborative work with academic and non-academic institutions, preparing the ground for future partnerships and social commitments;
- J) Pursuant to the objective and general guidelines set out in the Call for Applications Notice – FCT Tenure - 1st Edition, it is assumed that the researcher to be hired will be allocated 4 hours per week to teaching, which will be specified in the distribution of the teaching service of this Faculty.

3 – Under the terms of Regulation No 393/2018, of 28 June, the contract to be entered into will have a base-level remuneration of 3 520,87 €, in accordance with level 54A of the 1st payment scale, under a full-time dedication regime.

4 – The recruitment of the researcher to be hired in the form of an employment contract for an indefinite period of time will take place under the terms of Regulation No 393/2018, of 28 June, namely with regard to the three-year trial period. Anything not provided for in this Notice shall be subject to the provisions of the aforementioned Regulations.

5 – The workplace is located at NOVA FCSH, located at Av. de Berna, 26C, 1060-061 Lisbon, at the Colégio Almada Negreiros – Campus de Campolide, 1099-032, and/or at other places necessary to undertake the researcher's activities.

6 – National, foreign and stateless candidates may apply if they hold a Doctorate degree in the subject area of Art History, or other relevant related area or, in addition, those who, although holding a Doctorate in a different area, have a relevant scientific curriculum in the areas of Artistic Studies and Museology.

7 – The application may also be admitted pursuant to the terms of the provisions of Article 24(2)(j) of the Scientific Research Career Statute (ECIC), ex vi Article 9(2) of Regulation No 393/2018, of 28 June.

8 – Each member of the Selection Panel will conduct a curricular assessment by submitting a written opinion, which will then be included in the minutes, in which they propose the ranking of the applicants based on the assessment criteria indicated in this notice, scoring each applicant on a numerical scale of 0 to 100 points.

The selection of the researcher to be hired is conducted through assessment of the scientific and curricular background of the applicants in the selection process, taking as a reference the scientific area for which the call for applications has been opened.

9 – The assessment of the scientific and curricular background, considering the profile appropriate to the activity to be undertaken, focuses on relevance, quality and updatedness of the CV of the applicants in the following components:

I) Scientific Component (0-65 points)

a) the scientific production with international relevance (namely, books, articles in scientific journals, articles in indexed journals, chapters in books) considered most relevant by the candidate, and as the intrinsic quality of the respective content will be assessed, the applicant should select 3 publications (article or book chapter or book) that he/she considers to be the most representative of their career path, individually authored or co-authored as one of the main authors (0-25 points);

b) the research activities undertaken – namely, scientific projects that the applicant has coordinated or co-coordinated and which have been financed by public or private funds in an international competitive tender organised by national or international scientific agencies; individual scientific projects developed after the PhD and which have been financed by public funds in a competitive international tender organised by national or international scientific agencies; national and international scientific networks and consortia (0-15 points);

c) scientific supervision or co-supervision activities – namely, supervision of students in post-doctoral projects, in non-teaching components of doctoral and master's degrees, as well as internships, including participation in juries for master's and doctoral exams and evaluation of scientific projects or programmes (0-5 points);

d) Activities involving talks given at scientific congresses and colloquia and other relevant scientific activities with significant internationalisation (0-5 points).

e) scientific development project with pedagogical relevance, up to 4500 words (0-15 points);

II) Pedagogical Component (0-20 points):

f) teaching experience in the subject area of the call for applications, or in advanced technical/scientific training (0-8 points);

g) the presentation of programmes and lesson plans and other teaching materials for at least one course/seminar; and/or other teaching and training activities relevant to the subject area and field of the call for applications (0-12 points).

III) Other relevant activities (0-15 points):

h) Activities involving outreach and the dissemination of knowledge undertaken, particularly in the context of promoting culture and scientific practices at the national and international level and valued for their impact and recognition among the scientific community and open science practices - particularly the organisation of courses, seminars and conferences(0-5 points);

i) activities involving the transference of knowledge to society, tasks for the economic and social valorisation of knowledge - particularly management and provision of services to the community, collaboration with external entities, participation in the formulation of public policies, science communication or citizen science projects, and participation in projects involving the community or with a social impact (0-5 points);

j) participation in management bodies and participation and performance in tasks assigned by management bodies of the institutions to which the applicants have been linked, including coordination of research groups in research units evaluated by scientific evaluation public agencies (0-3 points);

k) technical/scientific training and additional professional experience considered most relevant by the applicant (0-2 points).

10 – On the basis of the assessment of the Curricula Vitae, their suitability for the scientific area in which the call for applications has been opened, the other documents forming part of the recruitment process and the classifications awarded, in accordance with the criteria indicators and weightings set out above, the Selection Panel will admit the applicants with a final classification, in terms of absolute merit, equal to or greater than 70, or exclude them when they have a final classification of less than 70.

11 – The successful applicants will be ranked by voting by the members of the Selection Panel, respecting the ranking adopted in the opinion referred to in Point 8, as follows:

- a) The first vote is aimed at determining the candidate to be put in first place;
- b) In the vote referred to in the previous paragraph, if an applicant obtains more than half of the votes to take first place, that applicant will be ranked in that position;
- c) If the situation referred to in the previous paragraph does not occur, a new vote will be held, only between the applicants who obtained votes for 1st place, after the withdrawal of the applicant who received the least votes for that place in the previous vote;
- d) If there is more than one applicant to be withdrawn, by an equal number of votes, with a minimum of one vote each, a vote shall be taken only considering those applicants to determine the applicant to be removed from the next vote; in this vote, each member shall vote, from among the applicants with equal votes, for the applicant who occupies the lowest position in the ranking contained in their opinion;
- e) In the event of a tie, the tie-breaker is made either through a tie-breaking vote or the casting vote of the chairperson of the Selection Panel, pursuant to Article 19(3) of the ECIC;
- f) The vote is repeated until it is determined which candidate should be ranked first, using the procedure described above. If only two applicants remain and each of them receives half the votes, the tie-breaker shall be the casting vote of the chairperson of the Selection Panel;
- g) Once the first-place applicant has been chosen, that applicant is removed from the vote and the full process is repeated for the second place applicant and so on until an ordered list of all the applicants is obtained.

12 – The Selection Panel has the following composition:

Chairperson: Doctor Luís Baptista, Dean of the Faculdade de Ciências Sociais e Humanas of the Universidade Nova de Lisboa, through the powers granted him.
